About me

I'm Vedant Garud, Third-year Information Technology (IT) student at Pillai's College of Engineering. Adept in programming, networking, and database management. My passion for technology fuels my ability to grasp new concepts and stay updated with industry trends quickly. I excel in problem-solving and thrive in collaborative environments, leveraging both technical skills and strong communication abilities. With a proactive learning approach and a drive for continuous improvement, I am poised to contribute effectively to the company's innovation and growth goals.
